"SINCE WHEN
are you BUYING MY SUITS,
madam?"

Here's something to try on your husband. After he rushes off to work... reach back in the closet and bring out that dingy, droopy suit that he said was all done for. Send it to us for a Zoric Drycleaning. We'll bring the colour back to life... soften that harsh wool (Zoric cleans out the deep-rooted dirt, you know... gives old suits a show-window look). Then hang it back in the closet and let him discover his "new" suit for himself (For which favour he'll probably treat you to dinner and a show that very night!). Well, why not?

OLYMPIC GAMES BROADCAST

Communication With Forty Countries

("Hong Kong Daily Press" Special)

Berlin, July 16.
The extensive preparations which have been made here for the Olympic Games include an "Olympic Games World Broadcasting Station" with a main switchboard enabling cable and short wave communications to be made with 40 countries. A single switch on this board supplies 200 stations in North America with news.
A telephone station large enough for a middle sized city is installed for direct communication with foreign broadcasting stations.
The German short wave station will also be actively broadcasting regularly to six zones in the languages of the receiving countries.
A special phonetic lexicon has been prepared for the German reporters, containing tips on the pronunciation of the names of the 6,000 active competitors in the Games, from 53 countries.
Practically every station in the world will broadcast the Olympic Games either by relaying portions of the German programme, or by own reporters, of which there will be about 80, who are estimated to make about 3,000 broadcasts.—Transocean News Service.

Send your most vaporous organdies and chiffons, as well as your cretonne loose covers, window draperies etc. Zoric Drycleaning will revive their first-day look. STEAM LAUNDRY

A reproduction of the new Zoric Plant now in operation at the Steam Laundry Co.'s Works.

"ZORIC"

A FULFILMENT OF
H.K.'S. DRY
CLEANING NEEDS

Our readers will be more than interested to know that the Steam Laundry Company have installed, at a cost of many thousands of dollars, in order that the public might have what we believe to be the finest and most up-to-date dry-cleaning system ever developed and offered—The Zoric Garment Cleaning System.

It is understood that this plant—its illustration of which is reproduced above—is the only one of its kind in the Far East.

The Zoric Garment Cleaning System is an entirely new and revolutionary method of Drycleaning of recent development, and it uses a synthetic solvent of the very highest quality called "Zoric Fluid." The synthetic cleaning solvent is absolutely harmless to the most delicate fabric—Chemically pure and free from any oils and greases. This ensures clothing staying clean longer because no oily film is left on the garments to pick up and hold dirt.

The Zoric Garment Cleaning System produces absolutely odourless cleaning, and one of its many excellent features is that the Zoric Fluid is non-inflammable.

The System produces that highest quality of cleaning because the most effective cleaning fluid known to science is used lavishly for each cleaning. Members of the fair sex will be particularly interested to learn that the Zoric Garment Cleaning System gives silks a wonderful lustre—Colours are clear and bright—and, woolen fabrics and fur trimmed garments, after treatment are soft and delightful to the touch.

Each garment is flooded in gallons of what is believed to be the most perfect of all cleaning fluids which penetrates every thread in every fabric. And, best of all, it leaves no odour.

Mr. W.W. Hirst the manager of the Steam Laundry Company explained that the Zoric Garment Cleaning System is the ultimate result of his tour of England and America, during the course of which he had the opportunity of visiting all the most up-to-date cleaning works and study all the latest machinery as well as methods, and it was only after the most careful study that he decided that the Zoric Garment Cleaning System is most suitable for Hong Kong's needs.

SUMMER

HEADS AND NOVELTY

Heads are more decorated now than for many years past. And fashion cares less for the cash value of such decorations than for novelty.

The smart woman crowns herself in the evening with flowers, fruits, wide swathed bands, and caps of all kinds. These range from simple flat models, made from flowers closely massed on a tulle foundation, to others on which hundreds of silver sequins overlap one another—as in the model sketched on the right.

Bunches of flowers are worn over the centre of the forehead and thrust well forward, or again you find a cluster of violets nestling on the crown of the head.

Flowers, singly or in pairs, are placed behind the ears, or at one side of the head. Floral wreaths and coronets are equally correct. Some women hide most of the head under a wide swathed band of velvet, silk, or brocade.

The shape or style of a headdress worn in the evening matters very little, so long as it is likely to attract attention.

PETTICOAT FEVER

NEWS FROM LONDON,
VIENNA AND NEW YORK

Petticoat fever is raging on the Continent. Some stores have set up special shops for the selling of these one-time old-fashioned garments.

Most of the new petticoats are made of taffeta in Victorian shades like dove, maize, beige, white and others of plaid trimmed with ruffles.

Vienna reports a brisk business in camisoles! They are sold in camisole-petticoat sets. Many of you will not know what a camisole is and the experts like to toy with this word now twenty years dead. But the serious shopper soon discovers the joke to be a charming vestee for wearing with a suit.

The camisole is made of ruffled chiffon or tailored in satin or all-over lace. Some have built-up shoulders and side closings and others have a new version of the lingerie shoulder strap buckle for adjusting the correct length when you get your purchase home.

Women are raiding the men's shops for slumber suits to replace pyjamas. These consist of lightweight jersey top with soft, open neckline, half sleeves and pleated trousers of broadcloth with an elastic waistband. The colours are deep blues, browns, black and maroon with contrasting horizontal stripes in jersey.

The waistbands have adjustable buttons—which makes for a much easier fit with ready-mades and the trousers have deep turn-ups.

Is turning away from the bias cut in lingerie. This is because of the vogue for seams and these set much better when the material is cut on the straight.

Nightgowns are dropping the waistline a little, broadening out the shoulders and moulding the hips closer.

A new kind of ornamental smocking called "Plastic" has appeared and is used on even the grandest nightgowns.

Long-sleeved nightgowns seem to have come to stay everywhere and there are many curious new colour schemes.

The strangest colour mixtures seem to come from New York. Here they are putting out navy blue linen with white Valenciennes lace. Burgundy red is another new colour used for lace to trim nightgowns, cami-knickers and panties of crepe suzette of the exact shade of pink to match this pinish brown colour.

A London manufacturer is shortly bringing out a line of shoulder-strapless slip. The secret of this lies in the special cut of the neckline and the elastic edging which does not pucker the material when it is attached.

FASHION ITEMS

Small black taffeta jackets of waist length are in vogue as theatre and party wraps for summer evenings, when the longer and more practical coat or cloak is considered unnecessary. White jackets too are worn, and look very nice about it.

Black lace gloves or mittens—long ones, reaching well above the elbows—are featured, with evening gowns of the "period" or picturesque persuasion. They are flattering to hands and arms.

Instead of shoulder posies or bunches of flowers thrust into sashes, young girls are wearing huge masses of flowers on the front of their evening bodices. Sometimes the decoration covers almost the whole of the corsage.

One of the prettiest ideas for an evening ensemble is the little jacket made entirely of tiny flowers on a chiffon foundation. White violets mounted on pale mauve chiffon composed one example, worn over a frock of palest pink chiffon pleated from neck to hem. The flower jacket was waist-length, open in front, and had a Medici-collar and small puff sleeves.

CLOTHES FOR THE BEACH AND CRUISES

Linon is being used for beach frocks, coats, and evening frocks. Some of the new short-length coats in modified swaggy styles are in fancy linen that is practically creaseless. There is also a new material like an alpaca which for some curious reason is called sharkskin: this is very smooth and is being used for all kinds of holiday clothes—play-suits, shorts, and trim tailored coats and swaggy coats with big sleeves, some of which are worn over summer evening frocks. This material is excellent for cruising clothes. Another new material is a mixture of cotton and artificial silk; it is for backless beach frocks and little accessory capes; it is specially good in a dusty pink. Some beach frocks are buttoned all the way down in front, others have the skirt buttoned down the back. They are used for sun bathing or for slipping on over swimming-suits.

SWIMMING SUITS

Swimming-suits are very bright this year and are made on slim lines with brassiere tops. Many of them are woven with Lastex yarn which keeps them taut and prevents them slipping at the back, which is almost invariably a "sun-back." A cellophane suit is said to be perfect in the water; it is lined with wool to prevent the possibility of any irritation from harshness in the material. The iridescence of the cellophane is a strong contrast to the duller surfaces of sea-going garments. It is made in a Mephistophelian red and also in a rich seaweed green. A milder novelty is the swimming-suit of silk; it is also woven with Lastex yarn. Satin swimming-suits are not new, but this year there are some attractive ones with a woven self-strap.

The woollen swimming-suit holds its own against all the novelties; navy, turquoise, and mustard are so far the favourite colours either in plain colours or in the new stripes. Some of the striped suits are most attractive, and combine two clashing colours, which in these garments look quite normal; lettuce green and red, for instance, make quite a pleasing effect in fine stripes.

Dressing-gown fashions of the moment are, either very ethereal-looking or almost masculine in design. There are no half measures. The flabby, indeterminate garment which used to serve as a dressing-wrap is no more. A favourite type is the tailored model, with neatly fitted shoulders, roll collar, smart cuffs, deep pockets and sensible sash. LONDON FASHIONS

THE LATEST IN GLOVES, SHOES AND HOSIERY

Fashions in sleeves set fashions in gloves. Fine washable doeskin gloves which come to the elbow, where they are carefully rucked, are worn in pull-on shapes. They are easier to keep in order than washable suede. The new long doeskin gloves look well with practical clothes, but with silks and chiffons fine suede gloves look better, and they are also worn in pull-on shapes. The most effective shades are navy, beige, and "squirrel grey."

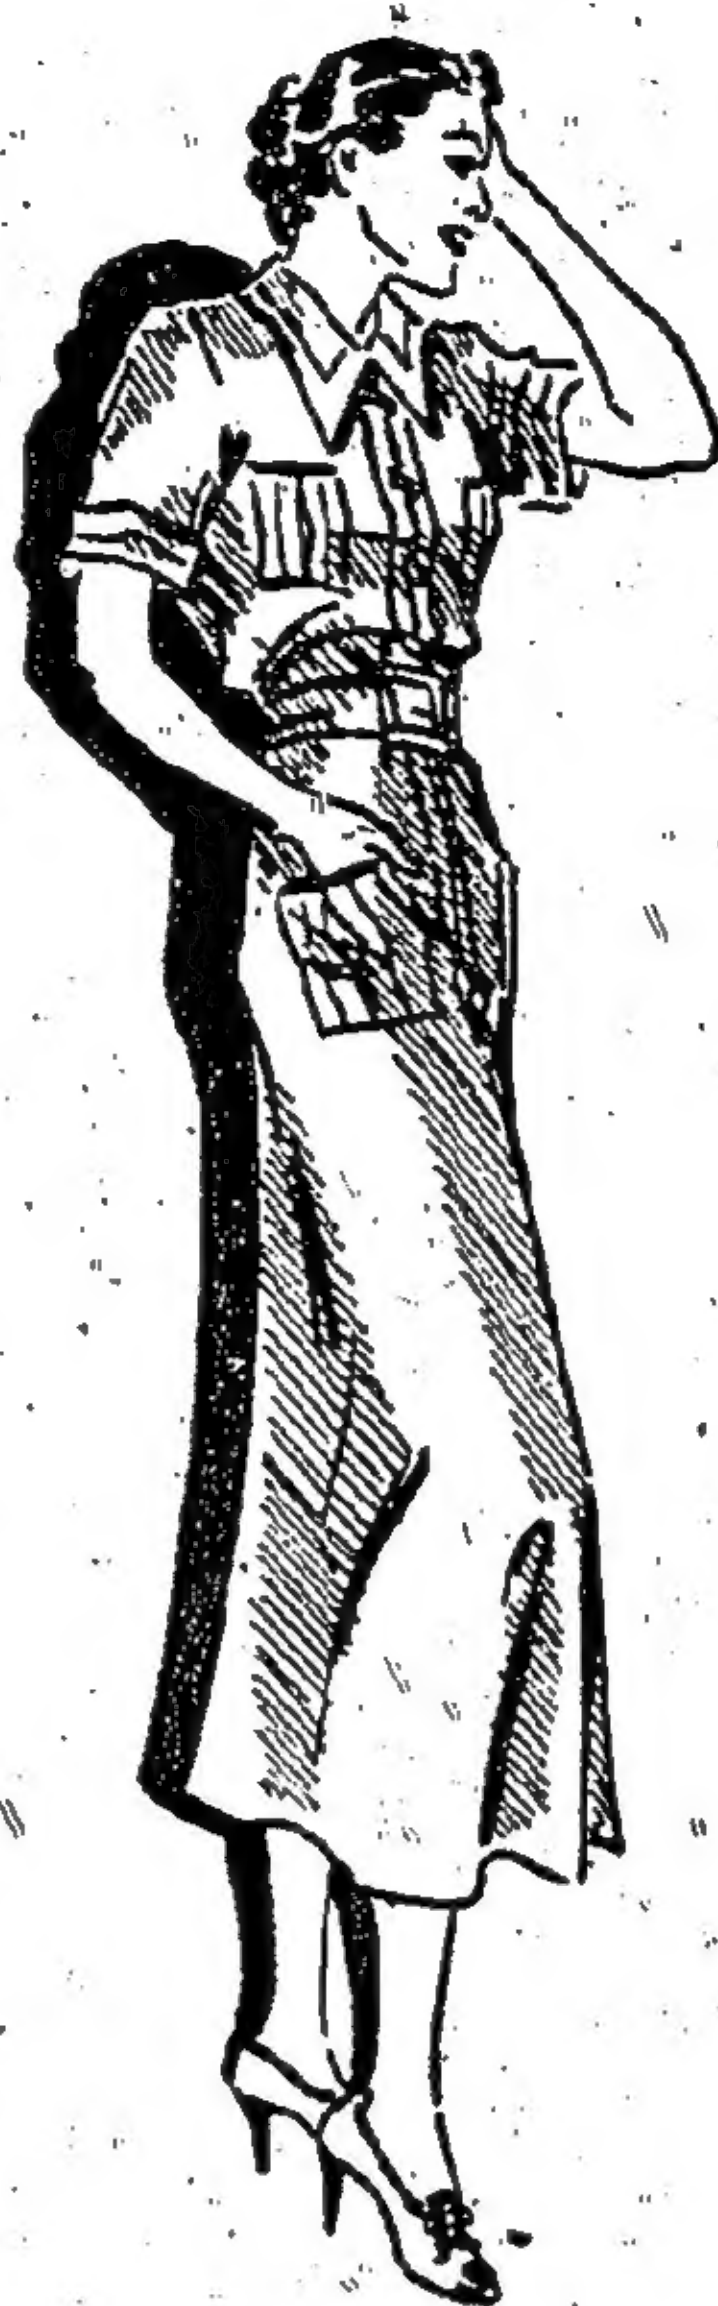

Among the new gauntlets is a doeskin with a wing cuff in the new cinnamon colour which has become fashionable for wearing with dark colours such as navy, bottle green, nigger, and black. Another new colour for gloves is off-white, which is being shown in a soft-grained cape glove that is washable and made in both plain and fancy gauntlet styles. Some women prefer this soft white shade to the glare of a chalk white, and it can be worn with navy and black tailored clothes. Though few short gloves are sold there are some new styles in hand-made net in an ecru shade intended to go with picture frocks. They are called Elizabethan gloves. Another short glove is in fine kid with a ruching at the wrist; it is in white, mastic, and black. In contrast to these little gloves are the new fine plique-sewn hosiery with laced gauntlets; these are for the racer and are supple and easy to wear. They are in a pale oatmeal colour and they wash perfectly.

SHOES ARE MORE ORNATE

Shoes are more ornate than they have been, and many of the smart walking shoes are trimmed with contrasting leathers. The deer-skin court shoes in navy and in black with kid pipings, and there is a new court shoe in suede with a raised piping which has a suede bow in front. A punched bow and panel is seen on another court shoe with a high heel; and punching is used on many shoes as a trimming. The new square toe is seen in some court shoes, and a smart court shoe in suede has a square toe and heel and braid trimming. Patent leather trims some of the more elaborate shoes, and there are court shoes made entirely of it. A shoe that is easy to wear is a court shoe in dull black satin kid with a collar in suede calf. Flat-heeled sandals in suede are novelties for warm days in town, and there are also sandals in calf and suede.

Sports shoes are in a great many new punchings and platings, and there is a large choice of styles and materials, some in linen allied with suede, others in linen and calf, and others in suede and leather. There are neat shoes for the seaside of crushed, punched kid and interwoven punched kid. The punched shoe is easy to wear in the summer.

Copper tones are the favourites in hosiery, and stockings generally are becoming finer and finer for town wear—tailored silk hosiery that is made in a range of different size tops to each foot is popular at the moment, and so is hosiery with a tuck that prevents the garter run that means a ladder. Among the summer stockings for country and holiday use is one in sea-island cotton in a very soft texture, with a small ribbed overcheck. In lisle thread there is a sports stocking in a double crochet design, and there is a crepon yarn stocking in tweed colours for sports and walking. These stockings are delightfully cool on a hot day.

FLOWERS SHOULD HELP

TO KEEP COOL

Pin a bunch of flowers in the lapel of your swagger coat—that's my recipe for a bright outlook on the day writes a correspondent. You will find that other people will notice it and like it, too.

A buttonhole of fresh flowers adds a charming finish to any get-up. Choose your favourite flowers—stocks, lily of the valley, or even a little bit of wallflower picked as you go out of the front door in the morning. A friend of mine is practically never seen without a buttonhole, and it is very seldom a bought one.

If you start the habit, keep it up during the summer. You'll be surprised how much less hot a heat-wave seems if you have a few flowers in the V of your dress, or perhaps pinned to your belt. They look so fresh and cool that you can't help feeling cool to match.

SUMMER SCARVES

TYROLEAN AND CHINESE PATTERNS

Tyrolean and Chinese patterns are to the fore in designs for summer scarves. In cravat style, silk scarves seen recently are embroidered with a gay design of flowers and hearts, or else with a grotesque Chinaman's head.

Instead of embroidery, another scarf was decorated with little felt flowers, red, blue and green, and little red hearts in the Tyrolean manner. While a Tyrolean couple of figures were embroidered in gaily coloured wools on a third cravat in shantung.

Plain silk triangular neckerchiefs embroidered with a single motif to take the place of a brooch are popular.

A white sea horse on a navy silk scarf looks particularly attractive. But anchors, dogs, a speed-boat, three hearts in a row, a spider, among many other things, can take the place of the sea horse.

An amusing scarf to wear in showery weather or with a swim suit is made of American cloth, either plain or spotted, and fastened with a button. American cloth and crepe de Chine are combined very well in another.

Large squares of crepe de Chine are useful, folded triangularly, worn either as sun tops with a pair of shorts, as a scarf, or else tied over the head to protect it from the sun in the fashionable sassy manner.

Among the patterns to choose from is an all-over design in bright colours of a church, a house, peasants, flowers, hearts—even a cow is included in this Tyrolean fantasy.

A BRIGHT FUTURE
ANTICIPATEDENGLAND'S FOREIGN TRADES

Increases Shown

London, July 15.
The President of the Board of Trade analysed in the House
Commons to-night the figures of Overseas Trade in the first half of the year published yesterday. He said the comparison between the first six months of 1935 and 1936 showed that although export trade had not gone up with the same rapidity as in recent years, it was still increasing.
In January to June 1935 the total exports were valued at £208,500,000 and in the corresponding period this year the figures had risen to £207,900,000. Imports had gone up to an even greater degree. Imports of Food, Drink and Tobacco showed an increase from £166,000,000 to £179,000,000, of raw materials and articles mainly unmanufactured from £103,000,000 to £118,000-000, and of articles wholly or mainly manufactured from £88-
000,000 to very nearly £101,000-000.

ITALY EXPORTS DOWN

Although exports had increased by only £1,400,000, that must not be regarded as entirely unfavourable, for part of the slowing up was due to the almost complete cessation for the time of exports to Italy, which were over £4-000,000 less than in first half of last year.
Excess of imports of merchandise over exports went up from £124,000,000 to £182,000,000 but there was no reason to anticipate any serious debit balance of payments this year.
The decline in "International Trade said Mr. Runciman appeared to have been arrested at last, and though improvement was as yet slight, the share of Britain in world trade was definitely increasing. In 1932 Britain's proportion of world's export trade stood at 9.9%. It rose in 1935 to 10.8%.

ESCALATOR CLAUSE TO BE INVOKEDNOTES HANDED TO FOREIGN GOVTS.

London, July 15.
Notes were handed to the American and Japanese Ambassadors in London to-day for communication to their respective Governments in which His Majesty's Government intention to invoke article 21 of the London Naval Treaty of 1930 known as the Escalator Clause, with a view to the retention by Great Britain of 40,000 tons of the average destroyer tonnage, the above figure which according to the Treaty, the British Commonwealth of nations should possess on December 31 next. The question of the retention of the Hawkins class cruisers is still under discussion between the British Japanese and United States Governments, and it is understood this was the subject of a separate communication to the Japanese and American Ambassadors to-day in which His Majesty's Government set out the reason why they do not consider the retention of these cruisers contrary to the Treaty.

COTTON EXPORT ON THE DECREASE

JAPAN'S INDUSTRY HIT BY OVER-PRODUCTION

Tokyo, July 3.

Japan's cotton industry is suffering from the twin specters of over-production and a slackening of the export trade.

Taking stock of the industrial situation after a period of rapid expansion, Haruteru Miyake, writing in the periodical Sangyo Kyoku (Industry and Education), declares that raising of tariff walls against Japanese goods has presented many difficulties.

The article quotes statistics showing that at the end of 1935 there were 10,330,452 spindles and an annual output of 3,560,724 bales of yarn, as compared to 7,045,029 spindles and 2,534,695 bales in 1930.

Comparing Japanese cotton cloth exports with those of Great Britain, Miyake states that Japan exported 2,725,109,000 square yards in 1935 and Britain only 1,948,884,000. In 1932 Britain was exporting more than Japan.

"In spite of its impressive progress, one may legitimately ask whether the cotton industry will continue thriving forever," the writer continues. "Several problems must be discussed before an answer can be attempted."

"First of all, it must be noted that the rate of increase has begun to grow smaller, despite the fact that cotton cloth exports last year were the largest on record. Still more significant is the fact that apprehension of over-production is being felt, due to the great expansion of productive facilities and the continuous increase in

Miriam Hopkins at the King's Theatre to-day in Samuel Goldwyn's "Splendor," the dramatic story of a girl who marries into New York's "400" and is ruthlessly impoverished by her husband's impoverished family to their blind craving for luxury.

Joel McCrea, who scored opposite the blonde star in "Barbary Coast," again appears with her in this Rachel Crothers' story.

By marrying Brighton Lorrimer, the son of a once-great New York family, Phyllis Manning wins the hatred of his domineering mother.

The embittered old dowager maneuvers the girl into an affair with a wealthy and influential admirer to insure a lucrative business connection for Brighton. When Brighton learns the truth he is bitter and unforgiving, so Phyllis leaves him. But he finally comes to his senses and the film fades out on a happy ending.

Paul Cavanagh, Helen Westley, Billie Burke, David Niven, Katherine Alexander and Ruth Weston are also prominent in the cast of "Splendor." Elliott Nugent directed the film which is released through United Artists.

A gold rush is what happens when a line of chorus girls spot a man with a bankroll!

output while the rate of consumption is remaining static.

"A PERIOD OF TRIAL"

"As a means of mitigating the threat the Spinners' Association has enforced a quota system of production among its members, but this has led to constant disputes among spinners, weavers and traders. On the whole, it is safe to say that the cotton industry is facing a period of trial."

"Discussing possible methods of dealing with the situation, the article states: "There are a number of ways in which the situation might be met; for example, a further cut in the production cost, the manufacture of high quality goods, transformation of the cotton industry into a 'comprehensive' fibre industry, and more vigorous efforts to develop foreign trade might singly or in combination prove instrumental in furthering development of the cotton business."

"There is no possibility of restoring the old free trade system and discriminative barriers against Japan's goods are being strengthened, but if technical improvement is combined with efforts to open new overseas markets, the nation should be able to tide over the present difficult situation that prevails both at home and abroad."

Remembered by many as a pair of clever dancers, "Yola and Paul" will make their bow once again to the Hong Kong public to-morrow in the Grill Room of the Hong Kong Hotel.

THE THREE MUSKETEERS

AT THE ORIENTAL THEATRE

The four most famous fighting men of fiction, who so gloriously maintained the honour of Queen Anne of France against the intrigues of Cardinal Richelieu, have at last transferred their swash-buckle and sword play from the pages of Dumas' "The Three Musketeers" showing at the Oriental Theatre to-day and to-morrow, to the sound screen in a rousing, realistic spectacle.

D'Artagnan, the Gascon fire-brand; the austere and taciturn Athos; Porthos the great-girthed and loud-voiced swordsman; the romantic, poetic, and dreamy Aramis, the four of them carved a niche in fiction's hall of fame with their rapier that no other quartette can match.

The brilliant French novelist had a situation that inevitably led to great romantic adventure drama and one that developed into a most thrilling tale of world literature, holding millions enthralled for nearly a hundred years.

THE LONE WOLF RETURNS

The world always stands ready to pay tribute to a lovely woman. Tala Birell is such a woman. Perhaps it was her exotic loveliness; perhaps it was her perfectly modelled face, her blonde beauty, her charm that gave her the right to understudy Marlene Dietrich in Berlin. No matter what it was, the young girl, to the manor-born in Bucharest, Roumania, descendant of a long line of noble ancestors, made her stage debut very near the top. And in a Max Reinhardt production.

It was in Reinhardt's production of "It Lies in the Air" that Miss Birell understudied Marlene Dietrich, taking over the leading role in the Vienna production. Her work in this famous play marked her for future success both abroad and in this country.

In 1930 she was invited to appear opposite Conrad Veidt in "Cape Forlorn." Because of her tremendous success in the English play she found eager admirers in Hollywood. There, too, she started at the top, starring in "The Doomed Battalion" and "Nagana." In 1933 she was featured in "Let's Fall in Love," subsequently appearing in "The Captain Hates the Sea," "Let's Live To-night," "Crime and Punishment," and currently, in "The Lone Wolf Returns," with Melvyn Douglas and Gail Patrick. "The Lone Wolf Returns" is the Columbia film based on Louis Joseph Vance's famed story. The picture is showing to-day at the Alhambra Theatre.

SCHOLARS AT THE "Y" BATH

KEEN SPORTS WITNESSED

The Central British School held their annual swimming sports yesterday morning at nine o'clock at the Y.M.C.A. in Kowloon.

The events were keenly contested, and the enthusiasm of the young swimmers could be judged by the numerous entries.

Practically every member of the school took part in some event or other.

In the inter-house championship Chocolate House came first, aggregating 134 points. This was more than double of Red House, which came second with the total of 60 points.

CARLIS "SWERONIS"

PROMISSORY NOTE CLAIM

DEFENDANT DENIES SIGNING

Forgery Alleged

Mr. H. C. Macnamara, instructed by Mr. M. C. McCallum, appeared for Mrs. Fung Kam, alias Fook Kee, in a claim which was heard before the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, at the Supreme Court yesterday. The claim was for $2,870, being money lent and interest thereon, against Chan Hing Wan, represented by Mr. Leo D'Almada, Jr., instructed by Mr. Peter H. Sin.

Mr. Macnamara said the claim was for money lent and interest thereon, under a borrowing note made in 1933. He would call evidence to rebut the allegations of the defendant that he did not know the plaintiff and that the action was instigated by one Chan Hing-kau against whom he was making bankruptcy investigations.

In the witness box, plaintiff while residing at No. 101 Queen's Street, stated that she had known the defendant for six or seven years. Road East, first floor, the defendant and her brother-in-law came and asked if she would lend him $2,000 to carry out a construction contract. This was on October 22, 1933.

The money was duly lent three days later, in respect of which a promissory note was given her. It was also agreed that she was to receive one and half per cent. interest every month. Since then she had neither received the interest nor the return of the loan, despite her repeated requests.

HER ALIAS

In answer to Mr. D'Almada witness said that the person, named Fook Kee mentioned in the borrowing note, was her alias and not her husband's.

When she was first approached for the loan, she went to Yau-mat to look at defendant's shop in order to ascertain whether it did exist or not. She did not know the defendant's family.

Counsel: Knowing so little about the defendant and his business did it not occur to you to get a guarantor?—No, I trusted him because my brother-in-law, since dead, told me that he was an up-right man.

In reply to further questions, witness denied that the first time she saw the defendant was in the Chief Justice's Chambers a short while ago. She maintained that the note was signed by the defendant.

Mrs. Yue Sau-chen testified that while she was living with the plaintiff, she had often seen the defendant in the house.

Giving evidence the defendant, said that he was formerly a partner of the Tui Yuen-soy factory at 34 Portland Street, Kowloon. The first time he saw the plaintiff was in the Chief Justice's Chambers. He had never seen her before and had never dealt with any person by the name of Fook Kee. Although his name appeared on the note it was not his signature. At the time of the alleged loan, he was in the country. He did not know the plaintiff's brother-in-law and had never visited 101 Queen's Road East.

In answer to Mr. Macnamara, witness said the note was a forgery, and suggested that the plaintiff was an instrument of one Chan Hing-kau, who instigated the action in order to embarrass him in his bankruptcy investigations concerning Chan.

Chan Koon Sang, the third son of the defendant stated in the witness box that some time in July, 1933, he left Hong Kong to go to the country, and stayed several months.

On October 17th, 1933, his grandmother had an injury from a fall, and he sent word to his father, who was at that time, in Hong Kong, and the latter arrived on October 20th.

About a week or eight days afterwards his father left for Hong Kong, but he remained.

Under cross-examination by Mr. Macnamara, who asked him how he remembered the dates so well, witness replied that the Tomb Worshipping Festival was held at that time of the year, and that he remembered the date very well, as he visited the tombs at the time.

However, he remembered nothing in particular that happened in the year 1932, or 1934.

"Do you keep a diary?"
"No!"

Mr. D'Almada: You're quite sure that the accident of your grand-

BUS FITTER'S LAPSE

LOSES JOB FOR STEALING MOTOR
PARTS

Leniency Shown

"In view of the fact that the Bus Company have given you a satisfactory character, and although I look on larceny by servant as a serious offence, I propose to bind you over in a bond of $50 for one year," said Mr. E. Himsforth yesterday to Luk Tong, 37, described as a fitter of the Kowloon Motor Bus Company, who appeared at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court charged with theft of a quantity of metal component parts.

Mr. W. Wong, engineer of the Bus Company stated that there had been a number of these thefts. Defendant however bore a good character and they did not wish to press the case.

Sub-Inspector Rogers relating the facts of the case said that accused was stopped and questioned by a district Watchman in Reclamation Street. A parcel carried by the former contained several parts of a motor engine. When taken to the bus company, it was revealed that defendant had no right to the property.

WIFE'S FLEA

The prosecuting officer said that accused had been employed at the company for three years and was an experienced fitter.

The Magistrate: What happens to old parts when they are not wanted?

Mr. Wong: They are supposed to be returned to the stores, where they are remelted.

At this stage, a woman who was seated in the public gallery of the court came forward and said that she was defendant's wife. She pleaded for leniency, stating that she had two children and that if her husband was imprisoned, they would have no food. It was his first offence, she said.

Sub-Inspector Rogers said that the police were not pressing for imprisonment.

The Magistrate: I suppose defendant has lost his job.

S. I. Rogers: Yes, that is so. Accused was bound over as stated above.

mother happened on October 17th, 1933? Witness: Yes, quite sure.

RENT COLLECTOR'S EVIDENCE

The next witness was Chan Chai, associated with a shoe-maker's shop. In 1933, he was a rent collector. He remembered collecting the rent from 34, Portland Street. Rent was collected once a month, but sometimes he had to return the third and fourth time (laughter).

Mr. Macnamara, in cross-examination asked him how many houses he collected from. The answer was eighteen. Because the witness had not seen the sign, Lee Sang, on the ground floor of 34, Portland Street, Mr. Macnamara asked him if he remembered all the signboards that were put up in each hedge and floor. He replied in the affirmative.

Wong Chuk Lam, another witness did not know the plaintiff because for the period of some twelve months the flat in which she said she was living had not been occupied. His evidence showed that he kept the receipts of all the rentals of 101, Queen's Road East. Yuen Po, who conducted a funeral equipment shop at 40, Portland Street, knew the defendant very well, he said in the witness box. He only lived a few doors away, and they often visited each other. To the best of his knowledge he never, at any time, saw any building equipment at defendant's residence, nor did he ever see the sign, Lee Sang in front of 34, Portland Street.

THE JUDGMENT

In his judgment, His Honour, Sir Atholl MacGregor, said that in every instance, there was a conflict of testimony, but that, fortunately, his decision in the matter predisposed him to come to a conclusion as to which side the perjury lied. For the plaintiff to succeed in her case, he must be satisfied that the note was made on that date, but her story was naive and childish.

Her story was an uncorroborated one, except for the one instance when defendant was recognized by a fellow tenant of 101, Queen's Road East.

The defendant's evidence was comprehensive, although the defendant might have used a better story instead of the third man whose defective memory helped to corro-

DEATH PRESUMED

PETITION IN LOCAL COURT

Leave for the presumption of death of her husband, Mr. Young (or Yung) Sing, alias Young (Yung) Wing Chong, alias Young Ming, late of 312 City Island Avenue, City Island, New York was granted to Mrs. Young Ling Shui through Mr. George She instructed by Mr. M. W. Lo by the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, in the Probate Division of the Supreme Court yesterday.

A fortnight ago, when the petition was brought before the Court, Mr. George She stated that the man left New York for Elizabeth, New Jersey on July 6, 1930, in order to collect some outstanding debts. Thereafter nothing was heard or seen of the man.

Counsel also suggested that the comparative wealth of the man among his clansmen in New York and the fact that he had several debtors might have induced the underworld of New York to practise upon him and have him murdered.

As a result of His Lordship's direction in regard to police enquiries, further affidavits had been filed, which cleared up the matter considerably.

It appeared that Yung's disappearance was the talk of the Chinatown at the time and this obviously gave additional publicity to the matter. Dr. Leung Ting-mi, a dentist, and an old friend of the family, had stated in his affidavit that not only himself but practically everybody in Chinatown believed at the time that Yung had met with an unnatural end. Dr. Leung himself made a report to the police in New York but the latter were unsuccessful in their search. The police at Elizabeth, New Jersey, where Yung was supposed to have gone, had also been communicated with, but they failed to find anyone answering to his description. All enquiries, reasonable in the circumstances, had been made by his relatives and clansmen to find him, but without success.

Granting the petition, His Lordship said: I am now satisfied that all reasonable enquiries had been made and the petition is one to which I ought to accede. You have leave to swear the death of this man on or since July 6, 1930, in the United States.

DISCHARGED WITH A CAUTION

Travelling Without Paying
The Legal Fare

Stanley Chiong, 20, a student was summoned before Mr. Burgess at the Central Court yesterday charged with travelling on the Yau-mat Ferry without paying his legal fare.

Sub-Inspector Johnson said that the defendant was seen to enter the ferry by the exit as passengers were disembarking. When on the ferry launch, Inspector Cheung Chong Kwe asked him for his ticket, the defendant produced an old used ticket.

Defendant said that he was living in Kowloon City with five friends. Three of these friends were going to Swatow. All six went to the Ferry that morning with their luggage and defendant bought six tickets. At the wharf one of the friends had occasion to return to the house and so one of the tickets was superfluous. Defendant tried to change this ticket with the office but was refused. Five travelled on the ferry from Kowloon to Hong Kong.

Later in the day the defendant was returning to Kowloon and thought that he could use the ticket that had not been used that morning.

Mr. Burgess said that admitting that the man was in the wrong, he thought that he should have been given a chance to make amends.

Defendant was discharged with a caution.

Defendant's statement that he was in Canton at the time that the note was written.

There was no evidence that such a firm as Lee Sang had ever existed. The defendant had never heard nor seen the firm, which was supported by disinterested witnesses, the rent collector, and the local undertaker.

The plaintiff was not an ideal witness, and if His Honour had to rely implicitly on the accuracy of her evidence he could not do so in every detail. Judgment was given in favour of the defendant, with costs.

SENTENCES REDUCED

COUPLE'S CARELESS-NESS IN ADOPTING A CHILD

An appeal was lodged before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Court yesterday by the Hon. Mr. M. K. Lo, on behalf of Lam Wing-tung, a cook boy and Yip Lin, wife of Lam, both of whom were employed at an address on the Peak, who were sentenced to three months' hard labour each in connection with a charge of participating in a transaction to transfer a minor—a male child, named Ho So-wah, aged 7 months, for a valuable consideration.

Mr. Lo said that he was asking for a review of the case. His clients were a married couple, employed at an address on the Peak and it was their wish to adopt a son. The only thing that could be said against the defendants was that they failed to enquire of the father's consent. They should have been suspicious that the child was being transacted by the mother without the knowledge of the father.

A review of the case would show that the case was not an offence under Section 45A, which dealt with trafficking in children. It was a technical offence under that section, and Mr. Lo submitted that a bond would have met the case.

The sentences against all three defendants were the same, and as the case of the first defendant was the more serious, counsel thought that the sentences against the second and third defendants were too harsh.

The defendant's employers were in court and were willing to say that the defendants were respectable and law-abiding people of the lower class. The only object of the transaction was not to traffic in children nor to re-sell, but to adopt a son. The defendants had been married for some time and had a daughter who was 8 years old, their sole motive must have been to carry on their family line.

One week of the sentence had gone, and counsel submitted that the defendants have paid for their offence, which was one of ignorance.

Inspector Ellis said that they both probably had the intention of adopting the child but they were extremely careless in the matter. The sale of children could not be countenanced and should they have wished to adopt the child they should have been more careful. They did not trouble to find out if the father of the child was agreeable, whereas he was not.

Mr. Schofield remarked that in a case like that, he did not think that binding over was sufficient. The sentences were altered and the defendants were given the option of a fine of $55 or one month.

BRITISH EMBASSY IN CHINA

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 30.

Lord Cranborne, Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, in a written reply yesterday to a question whether, seeing that the Government of the Chinese Republic had been established in Nanking, it was intended to move the British Embassy there, said:

His Majesty's Government consider that the time has now come for this change, and they intend subject to the provision by Parliament of the necessary funds to remove the Embassy to Nanking as soon as fitting premises can be erected in that capital.

ASSAULT CHARGES PROVED

SOLDIER TO PAY
COMPENSATIONS

Arthur Robinson of the Royal Ulster Rifles, appeared on remand before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Court yesterday charged with (a) assaulting Tam Sang an amah at No. 130, Jaffe Road on July 13, and (b) assaulting Cheung Hing in Jaffe Road on the same day.

Tam Sang in the witness box stated that on July 13, she was at home when her mistress, who was a prostitute, brought the defendant in. Defendant wished to borrow some gramophone records but the mistress refused and told the amah to open the door and allow the defendant to go. Defendant objected and pushed witness away from the door and struck her in the mouth with his fist. Defendant then picked up a spittoon and threw it at the witness who parried it off with her arm. It fell to the floor and broke. Defendant then pushed witness on to the broken spittoon and hit her on the head with the spittoon and blew a police whistle. The defendant ran after her and again pushed her over, bruising her left arm and back. The police then arrived and the defendant was arrested.

Defendant said that the way the complainant cut her arm was through falling down the stairs.

Inspector MacDonald, the prosecuting officer then asked the complainant if she could speak English and being told that she could not, he asked how was it that she could understand the conversation between the defendant and the mistress.

Witness replied that she heard it at the police station.

Corroborative evidence was then given by Chan Ngan Nai, the prostitute.

The second complainant said that he heard the Police whistle and came along and was struck by the defendant.

Defendant was fined $25 and ordered to pay $10 compensation to the first complainant and $3 compensation to the second complainant.

ILLEGAL POSSESSION

Two Chinese, one described as a theatre attendant, were brought before Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court yesterday charged with possession of a revolver and five rounds of ammunition, without a permit from the I.O.P. The men were Wong Yuet Kim, 23, theatre attendant of No. 174 Yik Wing Street, second floor and Cheung Tin Cheung, labourer, of No. 203, Tung Choi Street. The revolver and ammunition were found in No. 174, Yik Wing Street. Inspector A. H. Elston appeared for the prosecution. The case was remanded on his application for two days.

WOUNDING CASE

Chan So, 18, stall assistant, of No. 49 Apui Street appeared on remand before Mr. E. Himsforth at the Second Court, Kowloon Magistrate's Court charged with cutting and wounding another stall assistant in Mong Kok district on July 12. Detective Sergeant R. R. Ellis for the prosecution, stated that Man Fong, the complainant was still in hospital, and requested the case to be remanded till Saturday morning. The necessary order was made.

His Majesty's Charge d'Affaires is now negotiating for the acquisition of a suitable site in the new city.

DREDGES TO COST P. 1,500,000

AGNO CONSOLIDATED GOLD DREDGING CO.

Contract With U.S. Company

A new gold placer operation on which two dredges costing about P1,500,000 each will be used, is being planned by the Agno Consolidated Gold Dredging Company. This was learned from an announcement made by the company recently.

Directors of Agno Consolidated are L. R. Aguinaldo, Nicanor Jacinto, R. F. Navarro, Hilton Carson, Manuel Lim, Miguel Pujalte, Benito Legarda, Ramon Oriol, and A. M. Esthagen.

This company is the result of the merger of three companies Agno Placer Mining Company, Agno River Gold Dredging Company, and the Dig-Dig Exploration Company. This merger was effected some time ago.

DETAILS OF STRUCTURE

Details of the structure of the company, as given in the report to stockholders, follow.

The original stockholders of the Agno Placer Mining Company, in accordance with the mutual agreement between the three companies in question, as well as in accordance with an evaluation made by the government on Agno Placer's 20 claims in the Agno River basin, will receive P300,000 worth of shares of the stock of Agno Consolidated Gold Dredging Company. This amount will be distributed on a share-per-share basis between the three companies, while the amount corresponding to that owned by Agno Gold Dredging Company and Dig-Dig Exploration will be held in escrow.

Following evaluation of all the Agno properties, an additional P150,000 worth of shares will be issued to the Agno Placer Mining Company. In other words the corresponding shares for the latter two companies will be released after the evaluation of their properties, which have been taken over by the new corporation. The Agno Consolidated Gold Dredging Company plans to issue to the public P100,000 worth of its shares to perfect its title to its claim, immediately after which the Hammond Engineering Company of California will start operations on its property.

A STANDING CONTRACT

For this purpose there is now a standing contract between the Hammond Engineering Company and the Agno Consolidated Gold Dredging Company, which provides that the former company will operate the property of the latter company on a profit-sharing basis. Mr. Hammond was here in 1915 but nothing since then has been done on the property in question in view of the low price of gold.

Negotiations were subsequently started by Mr. Joseph Federle, a veteran American mining man, who is also vice-President and general manager of the Agno River Gold Dredging Company. The negotiations have been carried on since 1933, but on account of some litigation Mr. Hammond has not been able to start operations. Moreover, Mr. Federle had to perfect the company's title to the claims; hence the amalgamation of the three companies, was effected.

In disposing of the P100,000 worth of shares, the original stockholders of the three companies will have the pro rata right to buy the shares and the proceeds thereof will be used for perfecting the title. This will include a survey of the property, an option on the homesteads within the mineral claims, which will be undertaken by the Agno Consolidated Gold Dredging Company and which will be taken over by the Hammond Engineering Company later.

Incidentally, this policy is one of the important conditions required by the operating company prior to its undertaking the operation work. The California company plans to put up two dredgers which will cost about P1,500,000 each.

APOLOGY TENDERED BY JAPANESE

FOR PEIPING INCIDENT

Claim Foreigners Have Superiority Complex

Peiping, July 10.

Mr. Francis M. Fisher, the United Press correspondent here, whose attempt to photograph a Japanese military parade caused him to be violently seized by Japanese soldiers, was given a formal apology to-day by two representatives of the Japanese gendarmes. Soldiers seized and destroyed his camera film after seeing him snap a photograph of an army tank.

The gendarmes appeared at the United Press office to-day on the order of their commander, and tendered apologies in both Chinese and Japanese. They explained that the soldiers who seized Mr. Fisher did not know that such affairs should be handled by gendarmes and also that the soldiers only recently arrived from Japan, where it is customary to prevent photographing of military units by civilians. The soldiers, the gendarmes continued, "did not yet fully realize that they were not in their own country, and that a degree of circumspection is necessary outside Japan."

Mr. Fisher, after thanking the gendarmes for the apology, suggested that Japanese soldiers be thoroughly instructed as to where their rights end. The gendarmes' representatives gave an assurance that this was being done. They also handed Mr. Fisher a package of new films.

In connection with yesterday's parade, an officer of the British Military Attaché's office was reported to have been admonished when he tried to photograph the procession. The Embassy, however, said to-day that no British subject had reported any untoward incident.

A Russian photographer, however, definitely was manhandled by Japanese soldiers, and other persons were threatened during the parade, which was resumed to-day.

Major-Gen. Takayoshi Matsumoto, head of the Special Service

AUSTRALIANS AND NEW ZEALANDERS

Gather At Annual Meeting

DR. MATTHEWS LEAVING

The Annual General Meeting of the Australian and New Zealand Association was held yesterday in their rooms at Gloucester Building.

Dr. H. G. Matthews, the President, expressed his satisfaction of the state of the Association in consideration of the amount of work which had been undertaken during the past year. The Association was greatly indebted to Mr. G. E. Dudley, the Hon. Treasurer, for the competent way in which the financial affairs of the Association had been handled.

Supporting Dr. Matthews were Mr. F. J. Nell, Vice-President, Mr. R. J. McNeil, Hon. Secretary, and Mr. G. E. Dudley, Hon. Treasurer.

In presenting the statement of accounts, Mr. Dudley said that the statement did not call for special mention but there were one or two heavy items in consideration of the large number of things undertaken. At the social functions the official guests had run away with quite a lot of money. The expense of fans, furniture purchases would not have to be met again. On the whole the prospects for the coming year were bright.

The statement of accounts was then presented and passed by the members present.

THE HELP RENDERED

The President expressed regret that the results of the year were not as good as had been hoped, nevertheless the rooms had been a centre of social intercourse for the members and it was the generous treatment of the Hong Kong Lands and some individual friends of the Association that had diverted some of the burden of the finance from the shoulders of the members.

The success of the Association last year had been due to the two executive officers, the Secretary and the Treasurer. They were especially grateful to Mr. Dudley for the financial aid. The membership had not increased as hoped, but the hope was expressed that this year would see the increase.

The activities of the Association had been much on the usual lines, with the exception of two great splashes. Arrangements had been made for the party of Australian girls who had made a trip to Japan and the Association's thanks were due to Mr. Key, the Rotary Club and all who took part in the entertainment of their visitors, especially to Sir Thomas and Lady Southorn.

The members of that party had expressed their extreme gratitude for all that had been done for them while they were in Hong Kong.

THE SECOND SPLASH

The second splash was on the occasions of the visits of the Australian Universities XV on their way and return to Japan. On both those occasions the Association had dropped a little financially. The Association must be prepared for occasions of that type and their possible attendant losses.

The launch picnics had been very successful, the lunch parties might be carried on as well as the dances.

During the year two Russians, naturalised Australians, had been helped by the Association financially and in the future the Association must be prepared for commitments of that sort.

Dr. Matthews then expressed his regret at leaving Hong Kong, not his severing connection with the Association as he hoped to be able to carry on that connection, but

Division of the Japanese Army here, told the foreign press to-day that the Japanese soldiers had acted in accordance with Japanese military law governing the protection of armaments. The law, he said, does not allow army tanks to be photographed. He maintained that, in spite of the fact that Peiping is foreign territory, the Japanese military have an absolute right to protect their equipment from being photographed. Protest of foreigners against interference with the photographing, he declared, were the result of their superiority complex and a tendency to insist on their own rights and to ignore Japan's.

Asked how far the Japanese soldiers were authorized to go in such cases, Gen. Matsumoto avoided a direct answer, but said they had been taught to regard their weapons as being as precious as life and to protect them in the same way.—(M.O.D.N.)

the severing of his active participation in the working of the Association. He was grateful for the friendship of the executive officers and the members of the Association. His interest in the Association would always remain and he hoped that anything that he could do for them in Australia, he would be allowed to do.

The speaker took the opportunity of wishing the incoming committee every success and expressed the opinion that the Association could be made more useful and active than has been. He suggested that more might be done to get in touch with Australian visitors to the Colony and suggested that notices could be put up in the boats coming up to Hong Kong pointing out that the rooms, etc., were at their disposal.

Dr. Matthews concluded with an expression of appreciation for all the help and happiness which he had had from the Association.

NEW OFFICERS

After Dr. Matthews' speech, the meeting was opened to a general discussion "during" which many suggestions were put forward as to the possibility of improving the activities of the Association.

The following officers were then elected for the coming year:—Prof. L. T. Ride, President; Mr. F. J. Nell, Vice-President; Mr. R. J. McNeil, Hon. Secretary; Mr. N. J. Stockton, Hon. Treasurer; Mrs. A. B. Blakey, Messrs. H. Brokenshire, G. E. Dudley, T. G. Stokes and J. Wolfe, Committee.

Professor L. T. Ride, the newly elected President then addressed a few words to the members and said that in electing him as their President the members had exemplified one of the characteristics of "down under" and that was "trying anything once."

The members did not know what a job they had put on his shoulders after the excellent work of Dr. Matthews, nevertheless with the assistance of the committee and the interest shown by the members he could assure them of success even under his Presidency.

The speaker offered Dr. Matthews again the sincere thanks of the Association for all the work that he had done for them since its inception and he hoped that during the few remaining months that Dr. Matthews was staying, he would continue to give them his support.

Mr. T. G. Stokes then proposed a hearty vote of thanks to Dr. Matthews and expressed the hope that he would have a pleasant sojourn in the "old country."

TRADE WAR IN THE PACIFIC

With the publication in Tokyo recently of an Imperial Decree invoking the Trade Safeguarding Act against Australia, economic war is joined in the Pacific. How long mutual discrimination will continue between Japan and Australia is a matter of speculation, but, since it is obviously in the interests of both countries that a compromise should be reached, negotiations for a settlement are hardly likely to be unduly delayed. Behind the firm attitude taken up by the statesmen of both countries the desire for a settlement may be clearly discerned. Mr. Lyons, the Federal Prime Minister, announces that no hasty measures will be taken by Australia and the Japanese Consul-General in Sydney states that once Japan has been granted a fair measure of reciprocity she will alleviate or withdraw altogether the severe restrictions now imposed under the Safeguarding Act. The problem facing Australia and her method of dealing with it are by no means novel, Japanese competition, based on a devalued currency and a low standard of living, has induced country after country to regulate the influx of Japanese manufactured goods in order to protect the home market and to safeguard the interests of other States who are regarded as better customers. In the case of Australia the licensing system for foreign goods and the increased duties on articles such as rayon, cotton, tobacco, and timber, announced by Sir Henry Gullett, were designed to protect Australian manufacturers, and to further Empire trade. Japan had previously been offered a scheme for quantitative reduction for cotton and rayon, but had rejected the proposal, feeling that her position as a purchaser of Australian wool, which is second only to that of Britain, gave her the right to demand more favourable terms. This contention is particularly resented in Australia, where it is argued that the heavier Japanese wool purchases become the more Tokio will be disposed to dictate the level of

SOUTHWEST

Canton, July 16.
The Southwest Political Council yesterday decreed that Generals Chen Chai-long and Li Chung-jen be offered the posts of the Commander-in-Chief and Vice Commander-in-Chief respectively of the First and Fourth Group United Armies. This morning at 11 o'clock Generals Chen and Li were officially sworn into said posts at the Assembly Hall of the Southwest Political Council in the presence of large congregation of military and civil officials.

Mr. Liu Lu-yin, C.E.C. member and member of the Southwest Political Council, supervised the ceremony of oath taking and, in the course of an eloquent speech, vehemently denounced Chiang Kai-shek as the traitor who is bent on currying favour with Japan at the expense of China. He accused Chiang of forcing the recent Kuomintang C.E.C. Session to vote down the five national salvation proposals of the Southwest and of wilfully suppressing the anti-Japanese movement of the Southwest.

RESOLUTIONS
"In pursuance of our determined policy," Mr. Liu said, "we hereby propose the following: (1) that the defence of the Southwest—the birth place of the Revolution—be strengthened; (2) that a headquarters of the people's anti-Japanese forces be established here and all military forces be concentrated; (3) that all who impede the anti-Japanese movement be exterminated; (4) that the anti-Japanese cause be faithfully prosecuted to the end."

ANTI-JAPANESE POLICY
Generals Chen and Li also made speeches in which they reiterated that they would loyally stand by the anti-Japanese policy and the cause of national salvation. "It is with tears that I now accept the accorded position," General Chen said, "for I shall now lead all my forces against the traitors of China and see to it that the resist-Japan policy is brought to a successful conclusion." General Li concluded by saying that he would stand by General Chen through thick and thin and do his best to serve the anti-Japanese cause.

Australian tariffs, although these have to be framed with an eye on Imperial Preference. The rapid progress of Japanese cotton and rayon in the Australian market has already seriously affected British exporters, and has strengthened Australia's determination not to buy from a country which does not buy to a corresponding extent from her. While from the broader point of view the erection of new barriers to trade is always to be regretted, it is difficult to see what other course is open to Australia in present world conditions.

JAPAN CRITICISED

London, July 16.
At the Pekin Syndicate annual meeting, Brigadier-General Charles Woodroffe (former military attaché in Tokyo) chairman, describing his recent visit to China, dwelt on the "amazing progress made in the development of the country," especially road and railway construction, which must undoubtedly have an important effect on Chinese economic life. He paid warm tributes to the "wonderful efforts of that great patriotic leader," Chiang Kai-shek, Brigadier-General Woodroffe strongly criticised the Japanese attitude particularly as regards smuggling. "If Japan really desires to co-operate with China as spokesmen profess, she is capable of stopping this deplorable situation in a moment and if there is uncertainty in North China it could be removed. I regard China's future with confidence and optimism," he said.

The speaker emphasised the encouraging progress of the Syndicate's mines and the happy co-operation between the Chinese and British. He specially thanked Dr. Wong Wen-hao, Secretary General of the Executive Yuan for assistance in reorganisation of the scheme begun in 1935 and now practically complete.

The sales for the first six months of 1936 were nearly twice as for the same period last year. Production and administration costs were substantially reduced.

COMMERCIAL POLICY
UNCHANGEDMR. RUNCIMAN'S
STATEMENT

London, July 15.
Speaking on the Board of Trade vote in the House of Commons this evening, the President of Board, Mr. Walter Runciman declared that Britain's Commercial Policy remained unchanged. It was founded on equality of opportunity for all nations qualified only by the duty of others to play their part in the same general scheme. Only by the removal of artificial restrictions which hampered multilateral international trade could there be any hope of restoring turnover of Overseas Trade which Britain enjoyed before the crisis of 1931.

The policy of developing Overseas markets by trade agreements was being steadily pursued. But it seemed probable for some time to come that the hopes of the British Exporters would have to be concentrated mainly on the continued expansion of trade within the Empire and with other countries of sterling area. Nevertheless, looking at the whole world there were certain encouraging features.

Statistics available covering the past few years suggested that in spite of the growth of economic nationalism the levels of prosperity in individual countries tended to rise and fall together.

Although it was true that special factors continued to retard the progress in gold-bloc countries. If there were no further major developments of a disturbing character abroad, and assuming the continuance of industrial peace at home, there was every reason to hope, Mr. Runciman said, the progress of the past three or four years would be continued.

STABBING SENSATION IN KOWLOON

FOUR PEOPLE INJURED

Alleged Vicious Attack By
Barber In Hunghom

DISPUTE OVER RENT

A quarrel over rent that had been unpaid for a couple of months developed into a sensational stabbing affair in the Hunghom district shortly before 11.15 a.m. yesterday resulting in four persons, one of whom was a three-year-old girl, receiving serious stab wounds alleged to have been inflicted by a middle-aged barber with a scissor blade.

The alleged assailant was arrested outside No. 77 Bulkeley Street, the scene of the crime. He was prevented from escaping by Mr. H. Long, of the Hong Kong and Yau-mat Ferry Company Ltd., who happened to pass by in a car.

All the injured were rushed to the Kowloon Hospital by ambulance where the girl and her mother were detained. The latter was suffering from a deep stab wound in the left breast.

EUROPEAN INTERVENES

The injured are as follows:

Kwok Hung, 31, male, principal tenant, No. 77, Bulkeley Street; suffering from stab wounds on both shoulders and back;

Li Fook, 23, his wife; stab wound in the breast. Her condition is regarded as serious;

Ip Kin, 56, mother of Kwok Hung; wound on the shoulder;

Kwok Chi-tong, three-year-old daughter of Kwok and Li Fook; stab wound in back.

The alleged assailant's name, as given by the police authorities, is So Hung, 56, master of the Hung Kee Barber shop, No. 77, Bulkeley Street, ground floor.

ATTACK DESCRIBED

The scene of the alleged attack was the Hung Kee Barber shop, at No. 77 Bulkeley Street, situated between the intersections of Maran Street and Taku Street. The rear of the premises, which is on the ground floor, contained three cubicles and a couple of bed spaces with a passage running between to the backyard. The front portion of the shop was occupied by the hair-cutting establishment which paid a monthly rental to the principal tenant, living in one of the cubicles with other members of the family.

The affray took place in broad daylight and there were a number of passers-by at the time who were taken completely by surprise at the suddenness of the attack. Excitement ran high intermingled with the frantic blowing of police whistles and the groans of the injured.

Li Fook, married woman, who was the more seriously injured of the four, was lying in the pavement bleeding profusely from a deep gash in her left breast. The little girl, who was being carried by her also received cuts on her back.

It would appear from police enquiries that So Hung, the barber and alleged assailant, was questioned yesterday morning by one of the tenants of the floor, regarding rent, stated to amount to $21, which was overdue. In the ensuing conversation the barber was informed that failing payment the electric fittings, which had been loaned by the tenants, would be removed.

At this suggestion, it is alleged that the barber became infuriated and took hold of a scissor blade and lunged a blow at Kwok Hung, a tenant.

WOMAN COLLAPSES

A hue and cry was raised and the woman, Li Fook, who was carrying her baby daughter in her arms, hurried to the assistance of her husband with a view to quell the altercation. She received a deep stab wound, but she managed to make her way to the pavement before she collapsed in a pool of blood.

In the meantime, another woman inmate, Ip Kin, 56, mother of Li Fook, ran out of the shop and gave the alarm by blowing a police whistle. She was only able to sound a few blasts before she also was attacked by the barber and stabbed in the back.

Kwok Hung, in spite of an injury to his right shoulder and another cut on his left shoulder, managed to get to the Hunghom Police Station where he made a brief report of what had happened.

POLICE ON SCENE

During the brief interval that Kwok was away, the alarm sounded by Ip Kin, before she was injured, attracted the attention of Chinese constable C544 who was on patrol in the vicinity. He was soon on the scene and took So Hung into custody.

Crown Sergeant W. N. Winalade, who happened to be passing in a car, dashed to the place and retrieved the blood-stained weapon.

Almost immediately afterwards, Crown Sergeant A. E. Banks and a party of police and Chinese detectives from Hunghom Station arrived. Sergeant Banks thereupon removed Li Fook to hospital in an ambulance summoned to the spot.

Later the other injured persons were conveyed to hospital for treatment.

Police investigations, under Detective Inspector A. H. Eiston and Det-Serg. D. G. MacPherson are proceeding.

The barber shop was closed to business yesterday afternoon, and two constables were posted on duty on the premises. The folk were interrogated by the police.

So Hung will probably be brought before the Kowloon Magistrate tomorrow morning charged with cutting and wounding.

London, July 15.
Reports that Great Britain is contemplating the transfer of the Malta Naval Base to some other point in the Mediterranean was scotched by Lord Plymouth in the House of Lords to-day.

He said the Navy had no intention of evacuating Malta. On the contrary they would take every practical means of making its defences surer.

The Earl of Plymouth was replying to Lord Strickland who stated that last summer the evacuation of the civil population was contemplated and steps in that direction had actually been taken. He recognised the situation had radically changed since, and if Malta was not absolutely impregnable it was now very nearly so.

Three Cabbies

DEATH RESULTS

Laichees, a favourite Hong Kong summer fruit, has its inevitable consequences, that is, if one is a glutton.

It is rumoured that a few days ago a Chinese woman, who lives in Hunghom, went to a fruit stall and, having an apparent fondness for laichees, bought three cabbies. She ate them all. It was mid-day. In the heat she collapsed and died.

A pathetic situation arose, when relatives wept over her dead body and asked why she did such a silly thing!

Confirmation of the rumour could not be obtained as no report was made to the police, although there were eye-witnesses of the incident.

ASSAILANT IN THE DOCK

Sir John Simon Blamed!

ONLY A PROTEST

London, July 16.
The alleged assailant, George Andrew Mahon, giving his address as Westbourne Terrace, West London, appeared at Bow Street Police Court before Sir Rolle Graham Campbell, charged with unlawful possession of a firearm with intent to endanger life.

Mahon, wearing a brown suit and without any collar, trembling violently, limped into the dock owing to a deformed foot on which he wore a surgical boot.

"A detective said that while he was being taken to the police station, Mahon said: 'It is all the fault of Sir John Simon. I wrote him last night and telephoned him this morning.'

Mahon is further said to have added: "The King wasn't hurt in any way, was he? I didn't want to hurt him in any way. I only did it as a protest."

DISTINGUISHED MAN

Shortly before the proceedings began a tall distinguished man entered wearing a double-breasted flannel suit and bowler hat and carrying an umbrella. He was escorted to a seat reserved for the barristers. He declined to give his name saying "I am here in a private capacity."

Mahon was remanded for eight days. A solicitor represented the accused.

"A detective produced a five-chambered revolver which he said was loaded with ball ammunition in four chambers but not in the top chamber.

The detective added that Mahon said he had a postcard portrait of the King, a newspaper, and two other rounds of live ammunition.

NO INTENTION TO KILL.

After the Magistrate remanded the accused his solicitor said that in view of the report appearing in the evening papers the prisoner wishes to say there was no attempt to assassinate nor intention to assassinate.

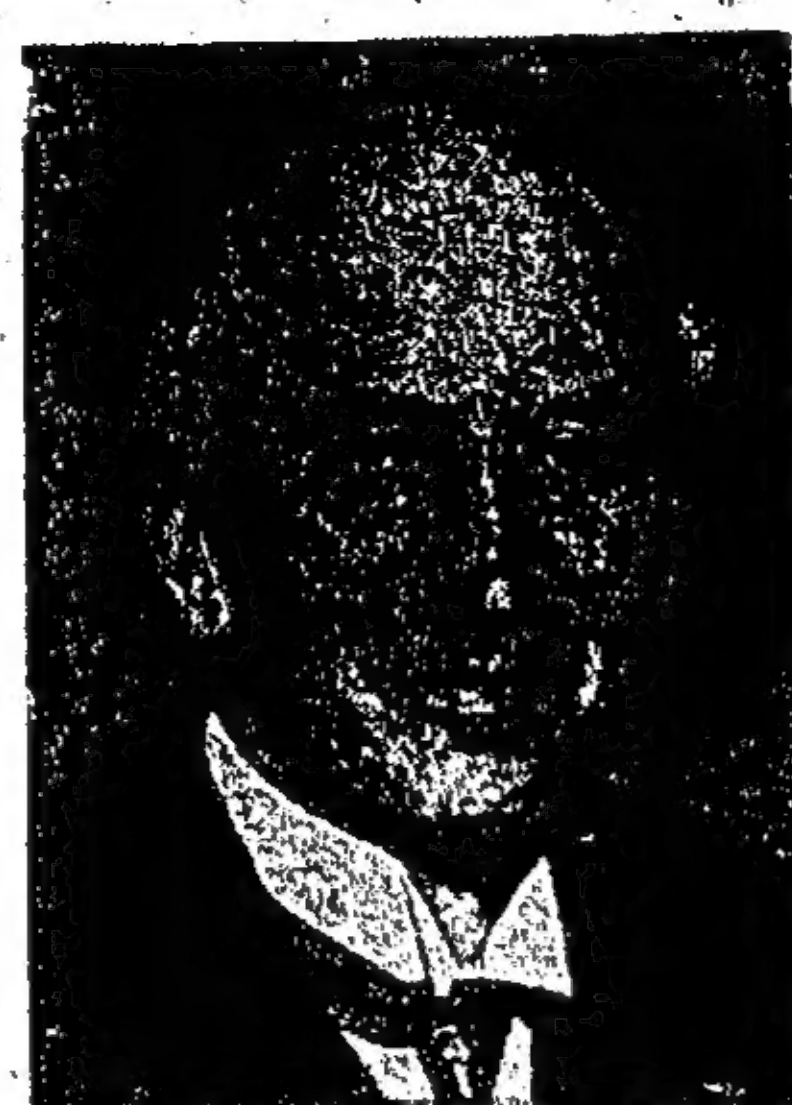

A great crowd gathered in the vicinity of the Court and heavy police reinforcements kept order.

Mahon was taken to Brixton Prison by car. The crowd kept on jeering.

ITALIAN COURT MARTIAL

Four Abyssinians
Tried In Public

THREE CONDEMNED TO DEATH

Addis Ababa, July 16.

Four Abyssinian natives were tried in public on Wednesday by a special Italian Court Martial which functioned for the first time. The Court met in the open square of the city.

The proceedings which lasted for three hours were watched with breathless interest by about 1,000 spectators.

Three of the accused were condemned to death and were immediately executed. The fourth was acquitted.

The three who received capital punishment admitted guilt of having smuggled arms and ammunition into Addis Ababa to enable the fight against the Italians to be continued. The charge was preferred by a general who had served under Marshal Graziani in the Libyan campaign.

Among the next offenders to face the court will be those who recently made an attack on the Addis Ababa-Jibuti Railway.—Transocean News Service.

ITALIAN TROOPS IN LIBYA

Part Withdrawal
Ordered

("Hong Kong Daily Press" Special.)
Rome, July 15.

The reports that a part of the Italian troops from Libya will be withdrawn, were confirmed by official sources here. The reinforcements which were brought there concurrently with the strengthening of the British Mediterranean Fleet will be brought back to Italy by degrees in the same accord as the units of the British Fleet are withdrawn from the Mediterranean.

It is further declared that, with regard to the naval agreements concluded between England and Turkey, Greece and Yugoslavia, Italy is not contemplating any retaliatory measures and that the apprehensions in these countries can therefore cease. In the absence of the so-called "Italian menace" it was difficult for Italy to see what purpose these agreements could serve, now that sanctions had ended.—Transocean News Service.

Rome, July 15.
The first batch of returning Italian soldiers, sent to Libya during the Ethiopian war, arrived in Italy to-day. They will be placed on home stations.

AWFUL WEIGHT OF WAR

The King continued: "Only few of us on parade this morning have known the awful weight of war with all its horrors and yet its comradeships during the world struggle of twenty years ago."

"With all my heart, I hope, and indeed I pray, that never again will our age and generation be called upon to face such stern and terrible days."

"Humanity cries out for peace, and the assurance of peace, and you will find in peace opportunities of duty and service as noble as any that bygone battlefields can show. Keep then the message of these Colours ever before you and the honour of your Regiment and of your country will rest safe and sure in your hands."

CHEERING CROWDS

The King had ridden in brilliant weather to the parade in Hyde Park accompanied by the Duke of York as personal Aide-de-Camp and Captains Escort of Royal Horse Guards along a route lined by cheering people.

Queen Mary and other members of the Royal Family watched the ceremonial of bidding farewell to the old Colours and receiving the new. The latter were then consecrated at a drumhead service conducted by the Chaplain General to the Forces.

Afterwards the King rode at the head of his troops as far as Buckingham Palace where he took the salute as the battalions marched past.—British Wireless.

BRILLIANT SUNSHINE

London, July 16.
The ceremony of presenting new Colours took place in brilliant sunshine.

The battalions receiving the Colours were the First and Third Grenadiers, First, Second and Third Coldstream Guards, and Second Scots Guards.

Dense cheering crowds lined the route from Buckingham Palace to watch the King ride with his brother, the Duke of York, to the parade.

Queen Mary and other Ladies of the Royal Family witnessed the ceremony.

INCIDENT ON RETURN

While the procession was returning to Buckingham Palace after the ceremony a man broke through the police cordon and dropped something wrapped in rags, which turned out to be a revolver. The man was arrested and will be charged with a political offence.—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

ESCALATOR CLAUSE INVOKED

London, July 15.
Great Britain has formally and officially notified the United States and Japanese Governments that she has invoked the Escalator Clause of the London Naval Treaty in order to retain 40,000 tons of destroyers which would ordinarily have been scrapped, being beyond the age limit.—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

U.S. TO FOLLOW SUIT

Washington, July 15.
The State Department declines to comment on the British note invoking the Escalator Clause of the London Naval Treaty, but Admiral William Standley, acting Navy Minister, says the United States will take advantage of this decision and also retain 40,000 tons of over-age destroyers, otherwise due for scrapping. "We will match the British, as provided by treaty," he says.—Reuter.

MADRID TENSION CONTINUES

Madrid, July 15.
The parliamentary session has been postponed in order to allow passions to cool off, following the murder of the Monarchist leader, Senor Sotelo.

But the tension has not yet subsided. All Rightist parties have decided to boycott Parliament henceforth.

Meanwhile a number of shooting affrays have occurred in the capital between rival trade unions, in which two have been killed and several seriously wounded.—Reuter.

OFFICIAL COMPLICITY?

Madrid, July 16.
Hints of official complicity in the murder of Senor Sotelo are contained in the unconfirmed report that Lieut. Mateno of the Shock Police, generally believed to be the executioner, has been quietly put over the French border.—Reuter.

LOOKING AT THE WORLD

SMUGGLING IS THE LATEST IN WARS

Nanking Govt. Undermined

London, June 16.

Behind China's Note to Britain, France, and the United States on the ever-increasing smuggling from Manchuria into North-East China lies the story of a month-old war in which no shell may ever be fired.

Japan knows that, heavily committed in Manchuria and its borders, she could subdue the Chinese armies, but could never conquer China. She must, therefore, bring about the fall of the Nanking Government by unimilitary methods that would leave the country still an expanding market for the goods she mass-produces—often, by the way, under conditions worse than those known in Britain in the far-off days before the Factory Act.

No Government can exist without money, and in China most of the revenue comes from the Customs. The facts that the interest on foreign loans also is secured on Customs revenue and that the non-Japanese trade is being paralysed, explain China's move in complaining about the smuggling to the Powers, which might reasonably be thought willing to address strong warnings to Japan.

JAPAN'S "INNOCENCE"

Japan, of course, expresses innocence of all complicity in the smuggling, which has now reduced Nanking's Customs receipts by one-third, but there is absolutely no doubt that this clever form of modern warfare has been engineered by Tokio.

The "autonomous" area of East Hopei immediately adjoins Manchuria, and is under Japanese protection. The smugglers operate through East Hopei, and the greater part of their contraband goods are of Japanese manufacture.

Under the pretence of keeping the northern zone demilitarised, the Kwangtung Army forbade the Chinese preventive vessels to approach their own coast, and denied the Customs officers on land the right to carry even revolvers. The Preventive Service was also told that Japanese vessels showed their flags to nobody, and treated interference as piracy.

The result is that smuggling by sea cannot be prevented, and on land bands of armed escorts of contraband defy the unarmed Customs men.

EXCITED PATRIOTS

So Nanking is beset in the North by aggression and by smuggling, and in the South by excited patriots who say they want to fight the Japanese. Tokio is more than a little suspected of inciting the campaign apparently aimed at it, but which could lead at present only to civil war. Such warfare would leave China enfeebled and a ripe plum to be picked by Japan.

Alaphal Chiang Kai-shek, virtual dictator of the Nanking Government, is taking strong steps to deal with the latter crisis, but, short of real war there is nothing he can do to end the warfare by smuggling.

No doubt Britain, France, and the United States will again protest to Japan, but Mr. Arita, the new Foreign Secretary, will say that he knows nothing about the smuggling, and that Japanese merchants also are losing money by it—for Tokio is the world's greatest master of the diplomatic lie direct.

ROOSEVELT'S BATTLE

One of President Roosevelt's chief fears for the absolute certainty of his election has crystallised in the announcement of a third party to fight the traditional republicans and Democrats. Mr. William Lemke, a Liberal Republican Representative, has announced the formation of the Union Party with himself as candidate for the Presidency. He is one of the authors of the Frasier-Lemke Farm Mortgage Bill, which was declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court.

Father Coughlin's National Union for Social Justice, the believers in the Townsend 240-a-month-old-age-pension dream, and the inheritors of assassinated Huey Long's "Share Our Wealth" scheme will back up Mr. Lemke.

While the Union Party cannot win the election, it may take many votes away from the other parties, especially Roosevelt's. Another cause for disquiet is the strong Fascist complexion of the Union combination. Huey Long, of

WOMEN AS DOCTORS

SUCCESS OF LONDON SCHOOL OF MEDICINE

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 3.

The council and staff of the London (Royal Free Hospital) School of Medicine for Women gave a luncheon yesterday in association with the University of London centenary. Miss Elizabeth Bolton, Dean of the school, presided, and the Earl of Athlone, Chancellor of the University, Mr. Oliver Stanley, President of the Board of Education, Sir Alan Garrett, Anderson, M.P., and Lady Barrett, president of the school, were present as guests of honour. The company also included visitors from the Dominions and Colonies and from France, America, Sweden, Turkey, Switzerland, Rumania, and Estonia.

The Dean proposed the toast of "The University of London." She emphasized how much the medical school owed to the University, which was the first in the United Kingdom to open its doors to women on the same terms as men. They were proud, she said, to belong to a University which had such a record as that of London for justice and fair play.

The Earl of Athlone, who responded, said there was a strong link between the University of London and the school. He did not think that the University regretted having opened its portals to women, and he was sure that in the case of this medical school, a wonderful experiment had been most successful. Sir Alan Anderson must be very proud that his mother was connected with this work for women, and he should also mention Miss Jex-Blake (a founder of the school). Even if there was still a slight prejudice against women, he did not think there was any reason to worry, because each day women were gaining their position. He knew it was not very easy to find positions for all the woman doctors they would like to turn out, but this in time he thought, would right itself. There was need of them in many places, and he knew of very successful combinations in the Colonies and elsewhere where a husband went out on missionary work and his wife had been trained as a doctor. Very great work was being done in this way overseas. He congratulated the Royal Free Hospital on the success that had been achieved, and he was sure that, under the guidance of Miss Bolton, the London School of Medicine for Women would go on from strength to strength. He could give an assurance that they would have the support of the University authorities in their excellent work.

After luncheon, many of the guests inspected the school and also visited the Royal Free Hospital. Among those present were:—Lord and Lady Rayleigh, Dame Louise Mellor, Miss Horabridge, M.P., Miss Bathbone, M.P., Mrs. Tate, M.P., Lady Anderson, Professor Barlow (U.S.A.), Professor Berkol (Istanbul), Professor Busuttil (Malta), Dame Janet Campbell, Professor Casanjan (France), Professor Omar Celal, Professor Ouliss, the Master of the Clothworkers' Company, Sir Perry Everett, Professor Fleming, Dr. Sherwood Fox (Ontario), Sir Hari Singh Gaur (India), Dr. Chodak Gregory, Professor Lucas Keene, Professor Keppin, Professor Kopwille, (Estonia), Mr. H. OUR LONDON LETTER

Gossip Of The Week

London, June 20.
In Portsmouth I am told, the outstanding impression left by the Royal visit is the King's abiding interest in the Navy—and, above all, in the welfare of its personnel, writes a correspondent.

The King's inspection was very thorough. It took him three-quarters of an hour to inspect H.M.S. Excellent alone. He walked slowly past each platoon and looked searching at every officer and man.

The boys from the St. Vincent Training Establishment also had their full share of the King's attention. Some of these had joined the Navy only a few days previously.

The King made particular inquiries about them, asking the divisional officers where the boys came from and how they were getting on.

ONE OF KING GEORGE'S LAST ACTIONS

One of King George's last acts, it was revealed by the Duke of York yesterday, was to make a gift of £20,000 to King Edward's Hospital Fund for London. King George was an annual subscriber of £1,000.

The gift of £20,000 is to be held as capital, and the interest will be included in the annual distribution to the London voluntary hospitals, thus providing a permanent reminder of King George's life-long regard for the hospitals.

Added significance is given to this gift when it is realised that it was the result of King George's experience of the work of the Fund during 34 years.

During this time he had been its active President for nine years and its patron for 25 years.

The Duke of York made the announcement at the meeting of the President and the Council of the Fund at St. James's Palace yesterday. The Duke has succeeded the present King as President of the Fund. The King, who is now Patron of the Fund, was President for 18 years.

NOT SO SPARTAN ATHLETES
Visiting athletes who have already taken up their quarters in Berlin are delighted with the accommodation at the Olympic Village.

Bedside lights, telephones, modern furniture, and the attendance of the stewards of the Norddeutscher Lloyd do not accord with Spartan ideas of athletic preparation.

The village itself is so large that the Australians' kangaroo mascot is probably the only visitor who has explored it all.

The wooden hut in which Dr. Carl Diem, Secretary-General of the Games, lived at the Los Angeles Games in 1932 has been re-erected in the Berlin Olympic Village.

It has a shack-like appearance beside the substantial stone bungalows which Germany provides for her sporting guests. But then the Berlin village is there to stay. When the athletes march out, the Reichswehr marches in.

THE DRAMATIC TENNIS PLAYERS

In watching the doubles match yesterday at Wimbledon between Borotra and Brugnon and Crawford and Quist, one could not but compare it with a Davis Cup match between the same pairs in Paris two years ago. Then the crowd was turbulent in its anxiety that the French pair should win. Yesterday the Wimbledon crowd must have wanted Borotra to win—it nearly always does, yet people felt placid enough to keep up a running commentary on the styles and oddities of the players, and even, after a set or two, to depart for a cup of tea. What they wanted, one felt, just as much as a Borotra victory, was a five-set match.

There was none of that tenseness yesterday which, in Paris, had seemed to oppress even Borotra, and none of that one-sided enthusiasm which had shaken even the imperturbable Quist. Yesterday Quist, with his quiet jokes—such as sitting, impassive, on a linesman's knee, rivalled Borotra at times, and Borotra was up to all his cheerful devices, the loud "Out" of appreciation for a good shot, the happy-go-lucky chasing after impossible shots. Yesterday too there was that element of personal drama which Borotra so well evokes; he was winning a match from a losing position with a partner obviously feeling below form. Borotra, as he can make it more than a game—a fight against odds in which one's sympathies could only be on one side. There is this power in Borotra of dramatizing his games, as there was in Tilden. With Tilden one felt that here was the "lion at bay," with Borotra it is "he must win." None of the younger players, not even Perry, has this power. It probably comes partly with age. But Allison, as he showed a little in his doubles yesterday, has it. With him one feels that here is a dour fighter with his back often against the wall.

LINER "POOL" MATHEMATICS
Pools in Atlantic liners have this year come back to their pre-1929 popularity. During the depression the pool on one of the big liners shrank to as little as £100.

The average total of the auction each night on the Queen Mary's voyage has been running into several hundreds. On more than one occasion it has exceeded £800.

Many a big pool has been won by a little intelligent figuring with engine revolutions, speed calculations, and consideration of the announced hour of arrival.

Thus during the Queen Mary's recent homeward voyage, from noon on Saturday to 9 a.m. on Monday (when she was due at Cherbourg) she had approximately 1,227 miles to run with 43 hours to do it. This was taking into account the two hours the clock would be put forward.

A simple division sum showed that she could do this easily at a speed of about 23.5 knots and, therefore, that the low figure of the field, which that day happened to be 860, would almost certainly not be reached.

The winner therefore bid £40 for the choice of fields. He chose the low field, which won easily with a day's run of 649 and returned a total of £313.

IDOLATRY AT WIMBLEDON
The worship of the great at Wimbledon takes all sorts of forms. There will be found eager groups in ardent conversation about their favourites. The main entrance of the All-England Club is "ringed round with a patient crowd who gaze enraptured at the players as they step out of their cars. When a player is recognised there is a chorus of "That's Kay Stammers." Often a player is not recognised and all sorts of guesses are bandied about, none of them right.

The autograph-hunters are relentless and tactless, for they ask all and sundry not only as they go into court but also when they come out, hot, tired, and beaten. Sometimes the quarry affects a lofty condescension and with a "you will be the death of me" air proceeds to scribble blindly on any piece of paper presented. But Tilden would never sign his name before a match. A tactless person once asked for his signature before he played Borotra. "Afterwards, not now," was the reply, and afterwards it was, and a mighty shaky signature too.

When Mrs. Moody was here last year there was a demand for "Balls used by Mrs. Moody, please." The tactful person in charge of the used balls would carefully search the stack of boxes and never fail to produce a box which had been used by that great player. Possibly they were different from ordinary balls. Certainly there was an astonishing quantity of them.

AMATEURS V. PROS.
Amateur golfers, I heard it said during the week-end, have deteriorated since the 'thirties. The Open Championship was won three times by amateurs between 1890, Mr. John Ball's year, and 1897, when Mr. Harold Hilton, his cigarette glued as always to his lips, won his second victory.

Comparisons with the past cannot be exact. While it is true that balls and clubs have improved, this is to a certain extent offset by the great lengthening of courses and stiffer bunkering.

It is a fact, however, that there are probably five times as many first-rate players, professional and amateur, as there were before the War. Proportionately, it is more difficult to make any impression.

This year the leading amateur, Mr. A. D. Locke, the 18-year-old South African, tied for eighth place. But his score, 294, would have been good enough to win in any pre-War year but one—1908, when Braid did 291 at Prestwick.

A COMRADE OF KITCHENER
For many years General Sir Archibald Hunter, whose death is announced, had been living in quiet retirement. A great soldier of the colonial war era that came to a close at the beginning of the century, his is almost a forgotten name. Yet he was the most famous of Kitchener's senior officers ing his games, as there was in Tilden. With Tilden one felt that here was the "lion at bay," with Borotra it is "he must win." None of the younger players, not even Perry, has this power. It probably comes partly with age. But Allison, as he showed a little in his doubles yesterday, has it. With him one feels that here is a dour fighter with his back often against the wall.

"GOLD CLAUSE" BONDS

TEST CASE BROUGHT BY HOLDERS

London, July 2.
The Court Appeal were yesterday asked to interpret a "gold clause" in bonds issued in America by the British Government in 1917.

The International Trustees for the Protection of Bondholders, Aktiengesellschaft, of Liechtenstein, appealed from the dismissal by Mr. Justice Branson, in the King's Bench Division, of a petition of right by which a declaration was sought that principal and interest should be paid in the currency equivalent of their gold value, instead of on a "dollar for dollar" basis.

The gold clause was a promise to pay in New York "in gold coin of the United States of America of the standard weight and fineness existing on Feb. 1, 1917," or in London at the fixed rate of 4 decimal 84 dollars to the pound.

Mr. Justice Branson had held that English law applied to the contract, and that, as the United States had declared it illegal to pay debts in gold coin, so much of the option as related to the payment of gold coin in New York had become void. There remained an obligation to pay in London at the fixed rate of exchange.

Sir William Jowitt, K.C. (for the bondholders), said that case was brought in order that the bondholders might test the position.

On the English authorities he did not think the matter admitted of much doubt, and he thought Mr. Justice Branson rightly decided that the contract must be looked on as an English contract which must be construed according to English law.

Counsel said he did not suggest that the Courts of this country would require anyone here to do in a foreign country that which was illegal in that country. But he thought the Attorney-General would agree that if, on the true construction of the contract in his case, the introduction of "gold" and "gold coin" was merely to fix the measure of the obligation, there would be nothing illegal in paying the larger number of dollars.

The hearing was adjourned till to-day.

when military reputations were built up in Egypt and the Sudan. In fact he is the last survivor among the seniors of that period, since General Sir Reginald Wingate was only a major at the Battle of Atbara and Omdurman, when Hunter was commanding the mixed Egyptian and Sudanese division. Although General Hunter rose to fame with Kitchener in the Sudan, possibly his best military service was in the South African War. He was Chief of the Staff to Sir George White during the Siege of Ladysmith, and in that position he impressed his influence upon the sorely pressed garrison by his indomitable courage and cheerfulness during the darkest days of depression, bred of disease and starvation.

Hunter was a most modest and unassuming man and disliked all publicity. There must be alive, however, many of the survivors of the Ladysmith siege who know how, denying himself all luxury, he distributed his own private store of preserved foods amongst those who had not had opportunity to make adequate provision for themselves. During the later operations in South Africa Hunter commanded a division and then mobilised forces in the field. His most spectacular success was the capture of Pretoria and his command in the Free State.

DEFENCE COLLEGE COMMANDANT
I hear that Air Marshal Sir Arthur Longmore is to succeed Major-Gen. R. A. Haining in the important post of Commandant of the Imperial Defence College.

The command of the College goes to each service in turn. Under normal circumstances the present commandant's tenure of the appointment, which is for two years, would not have expired till Dec. 31.

Major-Gen. Haining, however, is wanted at the War Office to succeed Lt.-Gen. Dill as Director of Military Operations on Sept. 1.

The Air Marshal will therefore hold the position for two years and four months. He was appointed last week to the Coastal Command under the reorganisation of the R.A.F. home command.

His flying service is the longest in the R.A.F. It dates from 1911, when he was one of the first four officers

JAPANESE SHOT BY UNKNOWN

LANDING PARTY TURNS OUT IN FIGHTING KIT

Mystery Surrounds Clerk's Wounding

Shanghai, July 11.
A young Japanese clerk was shot from behind and critically wounded early last night by an unknown assailant in Chapel, and, as a result of the crime, the Japanese Naval Landing Party turned out in large numbers, in full campaign kit, in manner reminiscent of the early days of the Nakayama case last November.

The victim, Kosaku Kayau, a 32-year-old employee of the Mitsubishi Trading Company, was shot through the back of the head at 8.15 o'clock, in Asia Li, Chi Mei Road. He was carrying a tiny Japanese infant at the time of the attack, the child of a friend living in the neighbourhood. Only one bullet was fired, lodging in the left frontal lobe of the brain, and blood issued from the wound so as to stain the baby's clothes.

TWO WITNESSES
The infant's brother, aged five, also was with Kayau at the time, and may prove an important witness of the attack. Neither child was injured. A Japanese woman who was in the poorly lit lane, only a few yards from the scene of the crime, saw the flash from the would-be murderer's gun, but she did not get a good look at the assailant himself and was not even able to say whether more than one person participated in the attack.

Settlement police from the Dixwell Road Station, close by, were the first to be called to the scene. A Chinese physician was summoned by a foreign sergeant and he at once realized the seriousness of the wound. Kayau was conveyed in a rickshaw to Foo Ming Hospital and attended there by Japanese physicians and Dr. T. M. Burton. The taking of X-ray photographs showed that the bullet, probably of 38 calibre, had traversed the brain from the back of the head and come to rest near the forehead. The victim did not regain consciousness, and he was given only a few hours to live. Dr. Tokuj Yoshida, of the hospital staff, definitely declared that Kayau "would probably die."

LANDING PARTY ON SCENE
After the Settlement Police, the Japanese Naval Landing Party were the first to get to the scene, and, in steel helmets and with fixed bayonets, they threw a cordon about the place, several scores of Marines being posted in the neighbourhood. Next arrived the Japanese Consular Police and the Chapel Police, the latter actually having jurisdiction. The Chapel Police asked for the assistance of the Settlement Police, which was immediately granted, and high uniformed and detective officials, including Mr. S. Uyehara, Assistant Commissioner, attended.

In a few minutes Dixwell Road was humming with activity. Japanese naval patrols were riding up and down, instructions were shouted, and men posted at strategic points.

MOTOR ACCIDENT RESULTS
As an indirect result of the turnout, a serious motor accident occurred at the intersection of Dixwell Road and Pao An Road, a block from Chi Mei Road, within twenty minutes of the crime, when a westbound Japanese motor-cycle patrol and an eastbound Roadster driven by a foreigner, collided head-on. The two Japanese machines with the motor-cycle and sidecar were seriously injured, especially the marine in the sidecar, whose chin was crushed against the machine-gun carried on the framework. They were taken to the barracks of the Naval Landing Party in Kiangwan Road.

The foreigner, who was not injured, was questioned by police from Dixwell Road Station. According to the Japanese press, the driver was a Mr. Brooke, British, attached to the Chinese Customs.

Immediately after the accident, further Marines from the Landing Party Barracks were posted about the scene and the ground marked with chalk to indicate the paths of the two vehicles. Chalk marks showing the path which Kayau whom the Admiralty permitted to learn to fly. As a result he reached his present rank, which is equivalent to that of vice-admiral, early last year, when none of the midshipmen of his year had risen higher than captain.

CHINESE CONSTABLE TO DIE

SEQUEL TO SHOOTING

Shanghai, July 11.
Death sentence was passed by the First Special District Court yesterday upon Tsang Tsing-mur, C.P.C. No. 28501 attached to Wayside Police Station, charged with murder and attempted murder. The Chinese constable, on the morning of June 2, carrying his service pistol, to an Avenue Foch house where he shot dead one Chao Zang-kwei and seriously wounded Chao's wife, because of the Chao's alleged gossip about his affection for a chauffeur's wife.

The constable himself was wounded following an exchange of shots after he had escaped to the Concession, and was arrested. Woo Zung-zu, the chauffeur's wife, was charged with being concerned in the murder and was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment. ("North China Daily News").

took from Dixwell Road through Chi Mei Road to Asia Li had been drawn at the scene of the attempted murder earlier in the evening.

CONSULAR INTEREST
Mr. Arata Sugihara, acting Japanese Consul-General here, told Domei late last night that he has asked Gen. Tsai Ching-chun, Director of the Bureau of Public Safety of Greater Shanghai, to leave no stone unturned in his search for the assailant and he warned Gen. Tsai to take stricter steps for the protection of Japanese residents in Chinese territory.

A similar communication was addressed by Mr. Sugihara to Major F. W. Gerrard, Commissioner of the Shanghai Municipal Police.

"It was only yesterday," Mr. Sugihara said, "that I called on Gen. Wu Te-chun, Mayor of the Shanghai Municipality, to exchange promises of co-operation in the promotion of Sino-Japanese amity through the prevention of untoward incidents."

Mr. Sugihara said he will call on Gen. Wu again to-morrow.
